New library card design coming Fall 2019!
Here is the latest update on the building project. We now have all five sites in play.

We had to make some changes to the plumbing for the new restrooms at our Taylor Street warehouse, so we’re behind schedule but proceeding. The South Branch is currently on track for completion of construction late fall. We’ll need time to move in, but watch for the announcement of the Grand Opening! The Keystone Branch design is currently out to bid, and we hope to commence construction sometime in September. Schematic design for the West River renovation is complete and plans have been sent out for preliminary estimate. And finally, we are sincerely hoping to be able to do an early site package for the new Central Branch late this fall. If we can get the utilities roughed in, then as weather permits, we’ll continue with the construction. Our best-case scenario is still completion of all projects by 2020.

The Elyria Public Library System is a strong supporter of keeping your tax dollars local, so participation by Lorain County contractors and vendors is our priority. I’d like to spotlight two Lorain County firms who were awarded contracts for the first phase of our building project – Kush Custom Cabinetry from Lorain and West Roofing from LaGrange.

Owner Terry Kushinski discovered his passion for woodworking at home helping his father and brother with woodworking projects, so he took a detour from his college-bound path to take every high school shop class he could. He refined his craft at various shops before opening Kush Custom Cabinetry 17 years ago. A native of the south side of Lorain, he chose his shop location on Broadway to attract people to the downtown area. All his cabinetry is custom designed and handcrafted for his clients, which range from commercial entities, including the Cleveland Clinic and the Cleveland Indians, to homeowners who want kitchens, entertainment areas and specialty cabinetry projects. Terry has previously done work for the Elyria Public Library System and several other county libraries, as word spread about the high quality and reasonable cost of his cabinetry. These days, he is joined in the business by his two sons, Bryce and Jordan, and fellow Lorain native Regen Espitia. He is grateful for the support of the Lorain County community in making his business a success.

Richard West was working in the foam insulating business, using spray foam to coat the interior of commercial freezers. He saw the opportunity for using spray foam as a roofing product, and went into business in LaGrange on his own in 1979. One of his early roofing jobs was the Polish Club on Middle Avenue in Elyria. While I was on site at the South Branch project with Brian Chavalia (pictured), president of West Roofing, he pointed to the Polish Club and told me that it was his very first roofing job, 39 years ago. In the past 40 years, West Roofing has installed over 50 million square feet of spray foam roofing, including a US Dept of Defense project at a military base in Jabala, Iraq. West’s spray foam product was applied to EPLS’s West River Branch Library in 2013.

We are hometown-proud to have these Lorain County companies working on our project. We continue to seek local companies that would be interested in participating in our next three building projects, and I encourage interested parties to contact me directly to receive bidding information.
